RE: Start of Irrigation Season
Agenda Item for 4/25/06 Board of Directors Meeting

Board action designating the start of irrigation season will establish the date this year that customers can know that our major maintenance projects are complete and we are ready to provide irrigation service.

No long-duration projects are scheduled for the spring construction season on the irrigation system, although some smaller repair jobs will have to be done before system startup on the Forbestown Ditch.

Matt Colwell and Rick McCullough are recommending that the irrigation season for all systems begin on May 15. This is nearly two weeks later than last year, but the extremely wet winter and spring have delayed the need for irrigation water.

Therefore, the following action is recommended:

"I move that the 2006 irrigation season begin on May 15."
